WITH THE PLACE OF BUILDINGS.

Machine rule and bosslem reached a ort of climax in Senator Murphy's politcal satrapy at Troy pesterday during the local election. A hot contest was ex-pected, the real fight being between Francis Molloy, Boss Murphy's candidate for Mayor, and Dennis Whelan, anti-Murphy Democrat, indorsed by the

An attempt was made before the election to secure bi-partisan election boards in the county, but Gov. Flower vetoed the bill. As the machine seemed deternined to win either by votes or violence, it is questionable whether the The election was by bullets rather than by ballots. One man, a Republican, was shot dead and three others wounded, one probably fatally.

The work of punishing election frauds should not be abandoned.

POR MORE PARKS.

It to proposed to provide two new parks for that portion of the city known as Washington Heights. One has already been authorized by a bill approved by the Governor. The other is now be-the Governor. The other is now before the Legislature for action.

Some property-owners whose holdings will be affected by the second park protest against it as unnecessary, and one of them denounces it as "a Tammany job to make places for a few favorities."

It is possible that the second park may be superfluous. But is in difficult make the occopic believe that we can have too many breathing places in the new portions of the city. The mighborhood interested will in the course of time be crowded like the lower parts of the city, and, when it is too late, the want of parks may be regretted, as it is to-day in other localities. It is true economy to purchase the land for such desirable improvements while property is cheap.

The trouble about accepting epilepsy as a counterpoise for bigamy is that after it had established itself as such men who were tired of matrimony might use it as a pretext for meaking out of the conjugal yoke. Twentieth street, well known among mbers of the theatrical profession, is recovering from a psculiar accident, which came near resulting in his death. He was called a few weeks ago to attend a patient suffering with an abscess in the roof of his mouth. The dectardecided that an operation was necessary. The patient refused to take an anaesthetic, and a plug was placed between his teeth to prevent him from closing his mouth.

The pain attending the operation was severe, and the patient jerked the plug from between his jaws and closed his mouth with a sudden snap. One of his teeth made a slight abrasion on the middle finger of Dr. Curran's right hand.

Blood-poisoning resulted, and the doctor's brother, Dr. John Curran, performed three operations on the wounded finger, with the result that Dr. Curran is now out of all danger. recovering from a peculiar accident,

The action is delayed for the sake of these "gags," the probabilities are scattered to the winds, a genuine appreciation of Offenbach is rendered impossi-ble, everything is chaotically irreverent. There must be some possile who have never heard "The Princess of Trobi-nonde." What will their impressions of it he if they make its acquaintance at Harrigan's Theatre? They will ask themselves if this was the opera that convelsed and delighted England and France twenty years ago. They should carrainly be informed that it is not.
